Berlin Fearful Of German People Starving

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, August 14.—The Chancellor Dr. Streseman has formed a Cabinet. Dr. von Bergen, now Minister to the Vatican, becomes Foreign Minister. The Socialist, Herr Robert Schmidt, is Vice-Chancellor and Minister of Reconstruction. The Socialist, Herr Hilferding, is Minister of Finance.

Among the parties represented are the Popular, Socialist, Social-Democrat and Center.

Crefeld, Aug. 13.—Four participants in a demonstration here were killed and thirty were wounded in a clash with the police who were trying to stop the plundering of food shops.

The demonstrators, some of whom carried red flags, seized the textile plants that have contracts for exportation to the United States. All manufacturing has been brought to a standstill.

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Aug. 13.—Strikers at the Hamburg shipyards attacked the police today who had intervened to prevent intimidation of workers. Several strikers were killed and many wounded in the ensuing fight.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Aug. 13.—It is reported from Duesseldorf that, following a demonstration by a crowd before the Town Hall at Aix-la-Chapelle demanding potatoes and increased wages, a collision occurred in which the police used their arms, killing four and wounding about thirty of the crowd.

(Reuter's Service)

Brussels, Aug. 13.—Numerous food stores were pillaged today at Crefeld. The police charged the crowd, killing and wounding many.

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, Aug. 13.—It is announced that deliveries in kind to Britain, Italy and the other llied Powers not participating in the Ruhr occupation, which have hitherto been maintained or partly maintained, will be suspended on the ground that the condition of the country necessitates the utilisation of all resources to provide the population with the minimum for existence and to ward off starvation, while continuance of deliveries would prejudice the success of the taxation reform and the gold loan.

It is added that deliveries will be resumed as soon as the position permits. Germany will endeavor to continue deliveries of coal to Italy.

(French Wireless)

Paris, Aug. 13.—Owing to an economic crisis, troubles took place at Rotthausen where paraders hanged on the gallows the dummies representing Herr Cuno and Hugo Stinnes.

The press reports that British coal is commencing to arrive at Bochum and into the region.

First news received of the British document seems to have an influence on the parleys on the composition of the Cabinet in a nationalist sense.

Ralph De Palma And Spectators Hurt At Races

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Chicago, Aug. 13.—Ralph De Palma, the famous automobile racing driver, and several spectators were injured today at the Hawthorne dirt races when a car driven by Louis Chevrolet, at top speed, crashed into De Palma's car and knocked him through the fence surrounding the speedway. De Palma was rushed to a hospital where it was said his condition was serious.

EXECUTE 14 BANDITS AT TSAO CHUANG

Only Two Foreigners Threaten To Leave Unless Conditions Are Bettered

Fourteen bandits have been executed by Brigadier-General Sun Mei-yao, former chieftain of the Pao Tzu Ku bandits who raided the Tsinpu express on May 6 because of trouble they have caused in Tsao Chuang, the coal mining center where Sun's brigade is now stationed, according to word received in Shanghai last night.

The executions followed an agreement reached between General Sun, the commander of the Twentieth brigade, and Director Chu of the Chung Hsing Coal Mines after protests against the actions of the soldier-bandits had been made by the only two foreigners who live in Tsao Chuang. Both are German engineers employed in installing new electrical mining machinery for the mining corporation, and both threatened to leave without the machinery being installed unless they were afforded protection.

One of the German engineers is Mr. Fritz Modde, who, during the entire time the relief mission was working for the release of the foreign captives at Tsao Chuang, rendered considerable assistance to the relief mission, and provided 'open house' for the captives and relief workers as he had the only cool, clean home in Tsao Chuang and the only bathtub.

QUICK CHANGES

According to reports from Tsao Chuang it has been impossible to distinguish the bandits, bandit-soldiers and soldiers because of the rapidity with which they change to uniform or out of uniform, accordingly as it best suits their purposes. Thefts and acts of banditry have been frequent without any action being taken by the authorities. All varieties of coolie 'soldiers' had access to the walled mine area under the agreement entered into at the time of Sun's elevation to high military rank, and most of them have been taking advantage of their opportunity to steal everything in sight, from important parts of machinery to pieces of ice from Modde's ice machine. All were armed with Mauser pistols and the two foreigners were considerable apprehensive under the circumstances.

They finally announced their intention of leaving unless adequate police protection were afforded them and unless the bandits caught red-handed stealing were punished as an example for the others. Director Chu accordingly invited General Sun to a dinner at his residence where the entire matter was threshed out. The agreement provides that three men from Sun's brigade and three from the Twentieth, who fought the bandits at Pao Tzu Ku, will be stationed at each gate to the mine compound and that guards will accompany the two foreigners wherever they go. Special mine guards keep sentinel over their residences within the compound.

DOCKERS RESUME

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 13.—The Transportworkers Union states that there has been a big resumption of work by the dockers on the London wharves, including two which have been the unofficial center of the strike. Altogether 1,500 men resumed work today.

Young Girl Defendant In Witness Box To Deny Charge Of Jewelry Theft

Miss Trevor-Smith Testifies Articles Shown In British Police Court Are Her Own; Case Continues Today

Miss Frances Margaret Trevor Smith, eighteen-year-old Shanghai girl charged with the theft of Tls. 800 worth of jewelry from Miss Carmen Kupsch, went into the witness box in the British Police Court yesterday before Magistrate G. W. King to make a complete denial of the accusations brought against her.

Further testimony for the defence was given by the brother and mother of the accused and by Mr. David Evans, after which the case was adjourned until today.

The case for the prosecution closed after the evidence of the complainant had been concluded and testimony had been given by her younger sister, Anita Kupsch, aged 15, and Mrs. Katie Helen Guignard, the children's grandmother.

Anita Kupsch stated that she had stayed with her brother and sister at Miss Trevor-Smith's and that she recognised the bracelet and the two gold bags exhibited as having belonged to her mother. She described other articles of missing jewelry and said she last saw them on October 31 but did not see them packed. The box containing the jewelry, which was locked, was placed under witness' bed and when it was opened two months later she found the articles missing. Cross-examined by Mr. K. E. Newman she admitted she could not say whether the jewelry was actually packed in the box.

Mrs. Guignard identified the bracelet as having belonged to her daughter, Mrs. Kupsch and said she had herself worn it. The name "Trevor" was not then on it. It had been given her by a friend of her husband's about six years ago. The two bags she also identified. She had given the smaller one to her daughter and the other was given her by a friend of her husband. One was actually silver but had been dipped in gold. She recognised a small box.

Cross-examined, she said she did not think her daughter had disposed of any jewelry before her death at Kuling last year. Counsel asked what the bangle was worth and the witness replied that it was worth between $90 and $100. Counsel declared that it had been valued that morning at $30, to which witness replied that she was not a jeweller.

Questioned by the Court she said that she had no doubt that the small bag belonged to her daughter and remarked that it would be a strange coincidence if Miss Trevor-Smith should have a similar bag which was also dipped in gold.

DEFENSE OPENED

Opening the case for the defense, Mr. Newman stated that his client denied absolutely that she had taken any of the jewelry. The gold bangle, it would be explained, was given her by a gentleman now dead while the gold bag was given her by her brother on her last birthday, on December 12. The brother had bought the bag from a Russian and it had holes in it and had been repaired. He would call a witness from Boyes and Bassett's in this connection. Both of these gifts had the name "Trevor" engraved upon them. The ring box exhibited, counsel admitted, might have belonged to Mrs. Kupsch.

Miss Trevor-Smith then took the witness box.

For how long did you know Mrs. Kupsch? For about four or five years. I was friendly with her. She went to Kuling in 1922 with her children.

How did the children come to stop with you? My mother wrote to me from Kuling that Mrs. Kupsch had died and the children were coming to Shanghai and were to stop with me. They slept one night in 28 Jessfield Road and the next morning they came to the house. It was in September. My second brother and Mr. Evans were living in the house. My father was in England and mother in Kuling. I knew that the estate was wound up. Mr. R. Mahnfelt was their lawyer. I assisted him by telling him all I knew.

When did you see the jewelery belonging to Mrs. Kupsch? I saw it the same day. The children brought the jewelry in small cases in a basket all the way from Kuling. They were afraid to lose it and Mr. Evans offered to put it into a cash box. As the small cases would not go in, they were thrown away and the jewelry was put in the cash box.

Where was the cash box placed? It was placed in the room adjoining mine and Carmen's bedrooms.

Was the cash box locked? Yes. Mr. Evans had the key.

How long did the jewelry remain in the cash box? For about one week. The children took it out and put it into a tin box.

COOLIDGE CALLS FIRST MEETING OF CABINET

George Christian, Harding's Private Secretary, Resigns

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Washington, Aug. 13.—President Calvin Coolidge today held an informal conference with members of the Harding Cabinet at which he requested that all the members retain their present positions and render him every assistance possible in conducting the affairs of government. It is understood that all the secretaries have given their promise to remain at least for the time being, although it is still rumored that one or two members may resign after the situation has quieted down.

President Coolidge at the same time accepted the resignation of Mr. George Christian, private secretary to President Harding, with the understanding that the resignation would not become effective immediately.

Mr. Christian's position was peculiar. He was a Democrat who lived next door to Mr. Harding when he first entered the race for the Senate from Ohio. Mr. Christian, unfriendly toward the Democratic machien candidate, assisted Harding, organising thousands of Democratic voters into his supporters, and became Harding's secretary in the Senate. He also took an important part in the presidential campaign and become Harding's private secretary and a close advisor on political questions. No announcement has been made as to whom will succeed Mr. Christian. It is considered an extremely important position.

President Coolidge has called the first formal meeting of the Cabinet for Tuesday afternoon when important pending matters will be discussed and a policy for the conduct of governmental affairs along the lines laid down by President Harding will be mapped out.

Mrs. Harding, who finished her packing at the White House bade farewell to her official home for the past two years today, and departed for Marion, where she will make her home in the future.

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 14.—President Coolidge will not allow a coal strike this Fall, it was announced here today following a conference between John Hays Hammond, chairman of the Coal Fact Finding Commission, appointed by President Harding and Dr. George Otis Smith, a member of the commission. Dr Smith came to Mr. Hammond's home with the President's views following a conference they held in Washington.

Titled German Women Go Back To Soil

TO provide instruction for young women the German Government has established three schools for farming by "social destitutes" in Schoorn, Bavaria; Miesbach, on the Danube, and at Rothenburg. Girls who take a two years' course will be able to become farm managers, insuring them of financial independence. At least 75 percent of the girls enrolled are daughters of once wealthy families, high officials and army officers. Miss Groiss, of Vienna, is shown handling a plow, while Baroness Puttkamer drives the cow. Baroness Imhoff is chief of the goose battalion, while Miss von Zwehl is the daughter of a German general.

FOUR KILLED AS PIRATES ATTACK STR. FEI YING

Outrage Committed At Kingmen By Officer Under Admiralty's Command

Four passengers of the steamer Fei Ying were killed, a dozen injured and the others, numbering over 300 were imprisoned for three days by the Fukien naval authorities when the ship sailed by Amoy several days ago, according to an official report filed yesterday by victims of the outrage with the local Fukien Guild.

The report stated that as the ship was sailing near Kingmen, a launch named King Hsin approached her and scores of sailors boarded the steamer. Shots were fired without warning at the innocent travellers; and all valuables of the 300-odd passengers were looted. The pirates were under the personal command of Yang Ti-chun, who is directly under the command of Admiral Tu Shih-kwei of Nanking. One of the passengers, Yang Tze-ming, was arrested and shot at Kingmen without trial.

Following the report, the guild yesterday demanded a thorough investigation of the matter by the Ministry of Navy and Admiral Tu of Nanking.

Holt Director Defends Base At Singapore

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 14.—Mr. Richard Holt, a director of Messrs. Alfred Holt and Co. and the China Mutual Steamship Co., writing in the Daily News "as one of the comparatively small section of the community who seem certain of the benefit of the Singapore naval base scheme," compares the site of 2,847 acres given by the Straits Settlements Government with the 1,914 acres owned by the Mersey Docks and says that £10,000,000 is ludicrously inadequate to spend on the scheme. He says that the reason primarily urgent in the defence scheme is the necessity of providing a graving-dock capable of taking a bulged battleship. Mr. Holt says that the Gladstone graving-dock at Liverpool which is capable of taking a bulged battleship cost £500,000 and estimates £1,500,000 to meet the cost at Singapore. He concludes from them that preparations are being made for much more than the ostensible scheme.

TAKE EVIDENCE IN ALLEGED FRAUD CASE

New York Attorney In Peking On Werblow Charges

Depositions in an alleged international fraud case stretching from New York to Peking were taken before Judge Charles Sumner Lobingier of the United States Court for China in Peking yesterday, according to word received last night.

The depositions were taken by Mr. Hugo Wintner of New York, who passed through Shanghai en route to the capital after arriving on the Empress of Australia, and U. S. District Attorney Leonard G. Husar. Mr. Wintner made a special trip to the Orient to take the depositions in connection with the charges made against Mr. Henry Werblow, formerly of the Peking branch of the Asia Bank. Werblow has already been indicted by a grand jury in New York, and, out on bail, is now in Peking.

The alleged fraud was committed last year at Peking on alleged forged instructions to a London bank for payment on a large sum of money on the Asia Banking Corporation and the Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, August 14.—M. de Lasteyrie, the Minister of Finance, announced today that, if the considerable inprovement in the revenue for the first six months of 1923 were continued for the second six months, the ordinary Budget would be balanced for the first time since 1914.

JAPANESE SEEK TO MAKE FRIENDS OF AUSTRALIANS

Members Of Pan-Pacific Mission Conduct Tactful Campaign

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 13.—The Sydney Correspondent of the Daily Telegraph states that the Japanese scientists at the Pan-Pacific Conference, together with the Members of the Japanese House of Peers who are accompanying them, are conducting a tactful campaign with the object of promoting an improved Japanese-Australian understanding.

For example, Professor Kanasugi, in the course of a statement which was officially inspired, says that the Japanese entertain a feeling of sincere friendship towards Australians and desire to promote and maintain peace on the Pacific and the general advancement of civilisation. He declared that the Pacific Ocean was too vast to be controlled by one nation, however powerful.

He denied that Japan was aggressive and militaristic, instancing the observance of the Washington Treaty, and the restoration of Tsingtao to China, towards whom, he claimed, Japan had shown generosity and friendship. Professor Kanasugi pleaded for the stimulation of commercial relationship between Japan and Australia.

PARIS AMAZED BY ATTITUDE OF BRITAIN ON REPARATIONS

Astonished By Linking Of French And German Debt

U. S. IS SILENT

Belgium Also Surprised; No Indication Of Change In Policy

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Aug. 13.—French official circles express great disappointment with the British Note. They are astonished that, instead of the creditors uniting to make Germany pay, a creditor has decided to stand aside, simultaneously placing all debtors, Allied and enemy, under a common obligation. The point that has caused the greatest surprise is the linking together of the French and German war debts.

The French standpoint is that, while France has remitted the war debts owing to her, she is ready to pay her own debts to the Allies, but she has refused to have her debts made dependent on Germany's capacity and will to fulfil her obligations. It is emphatically declared that France does not intend to repudiate her war debts.

New York, Aug. 13.—The noncommittal attitude of the Washington official world has not been changed by the British Note.

The New York Evening Post declares that any Government that refuses to accept the Note as at least a basis of discussion will outrage the opinion of the world.

The New York Evening Sun says that nothing is left to responsible British statesmen if their argument fails but to extricate the nation by the best means available.

New York, Aug. 13.—Ambassador Herrick arriving from France today admitted he had been greatly hurt by the blast of criticism directed against him and called it unjust. On the subject of the Presidency he said it had become an impossible position and that not even a strong man physically can remain on the post through a term.

Arrest Japanese Arms Runner At Tsao Chuang

One Japanese and two Chinese, alleged to have been caught in the act of importing arms into Tsao Chuang, have been arrested by the authorities there and jailed at Tsinanfu, according to word received in Shanghai last night. The Japanese was turned over to the Japanese Consular authorities for trial.

They were arrested at Tsao Chuang, which was the headquarters of the foreign relief workers who obtained the release of the foreigners held captive by the Shantung bandits in the Spring, and now the headquarters of General Sun Mei-yao, commander of the ex-bandit brigade. It is alleged that the Japanese had three large boxes of arms which he had sold to bandits in the vicinity.

Sir Henry Lawson (Liberal) 9,763 votes.

Major Cayzer formerly retired in favor of Lt.-Col. Wilson owing to ill-health.

CHEN YAO-SHAN PLEDGES LOYALTY TO GENERAL LU

Fourth Division Commander Denies Report Of His Parley With Nanking

Public denial of the report in the Sin Wan Pao that Chekiang and Kiangsu military officers were acting against their superiors in the present political difference was made yesterday by General Chen Yao-shan, commander of the Fourth Division, in an interview with a representative of THE CHINA PRESS. General Chen's forces are stationed in Shanghai, Sunkiang and Kashing, being second in command of the military forces in the Chekiang Province, so a statement from him naturally has far-reaching effect locally, especially at present when there is much talk in the atmosphere that a local clash is possible.

The Chinese press published a report that military officers of Chekiang and Kiangsu had been spending their leisure hours in Shanghai in order to hold meetings among themselves here; and the Sin Wan Pao particularly mentioned the name of General Chen as one whose mission to Shanghai was in connection with the parley. The publication alleged that the position taken by these officers was that no matter whether their leaders (Generals Lu Yung-hsiang and Chi Shih-yuan) were supporting or opposing Tsao Kun as the next president, they would adopt a non-committal attitude, because they contended that they themselves were either relatives to or close friends of the leaders of the Peiyang Party and should not cut each other's throat.

In the interview, General Chen expressed great surprise at the report and stated that as a military officer, he felt it his duty to obey his superior and had never dreamed of acting contrary to the orders of General Lu Yung-hsiang, the Chekiang Director of Military Rehabilitation.

"I am in absolute accord with the policy of General Lu in concentrating his efforts in the protection of the life and property within his jurisdiction," said General Chen. "Being a military man, I only know how to execute the duties assigned to me and had never entered into any alliance or understanding with any political clique. You see my troops are stationed in Sunkiang, Kashing and Shanghai along the Shanghai-Hangchow Railway and my private residence is in Shanghai. It is natural that I should make visits in Shanghai. But it amusing how certain sections of the press would publish their reports on questionable facts," he smiled.

Asked what he thought of Tsao Kun's ambition to get into the presidential chair, General Chen asserted that he would like to be guided by genuine public opinion. If the people desired to support Tsao, he would do the same. If the people were opposed to his aspirations, he would adopt the same attitude.

"The report said that we were either relatives or close friends of the leaders of the Peiyang Party and should not cut each other's throat," continued General Chen. "Indeed, if we were engaged in a struggle against foreign aggression, we, serving under one flag, should lose no opportunity in strengthening the spirit of solidarity and acquiring a form of patriotism not to be limited by principles of any party whatsoever. On the other hand, if one clique is seeking to realise certain wily ambitions against the will of the public and prolong the internal strife, we are decided to stamp it out, whether its adherents are our relatives, friends, or fellow-members of the same party. This is my definite view on the situation and I do not propose to change it for the rest of my days.

"The newspaper report appears to have been based on rumors, which are calculated to stir up trouble among the military officers of the two provinces. During this period of restlessness, it is especially regrettable that it should have been allowed to be circulated among the general populace of the two provinces."

Corps Ask Peking To Ward Off War

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Aug. 13.—The American, British, French and Japanese Ministers presented two Notes to the Waichiaopu on Saturday.

The first was with reference to the threatened war between Chekiang and Kiangsu and urged the Government to take steps to prevent it, failing which the Powers may take measures for the protection of their nationals in that neighborhood.

The second was a protest against the action of the Chinese authorities with regard to the Land Office at Harbin.

Peking, Aug. 13.—In view of the persistent rumors with regard to an outbreak of hostilities between Kiangsu and Chekiang the American, British, French and Japanese Ministers have dispatched a joint note to the Waichiaopu, enquiring what steps will be taken by the Chinese Government for the protection of foreign nations, in the event of a rupture of relationship between the two provinces.

The note emphasises that Shanghai must be excluded from the war zone. It declares that if at any time the Powers should find the welfare and interests of their respective nationals jeopardized, they would take such measures as may be necessary to safeguard the foreigners resident in this country.

The Waichiaopu has forwarded the note to Dr. Wellington Koo, Minister of Foreign Affairs, who is at Peitaiho.

Gasoline Now Selling At 17 Cents Gallon

San Francisco, August 1.—The price of gasoline was reduced two cents a gallon today to the consumer. The reduction affects the entire Coast territory, including Hawaii.

The leading companies announced that the reduction applies to service stations and garages. The new delivery price is 17 cents a gallon.

No explanation is given, but it was announced recently that the industry was facing an overproduction.

EXCHANGE ERRATIC

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 13.—Foreign exchanges were rather erratic and uncertain today on the British Note. French francs further depreciated to 82.35, Belgian francs, however, improved on loan talk and closed at 100.25 to the £.

10,000 Mark Mortgage Paid Off With A Cake

Berlin.—A Hamburg capitalist several years ago lent 10,000 marks to a baker on a mortgage. The other day the capitalist, together with his wife, called to collect the debt. When the baker tried to pay off his obligation with a 10,000-mark note, now worth only 7 cents, the woman laughed and suggested: "You'd better bake us a butter cake instead."

The baker hesitated and then, remarking that flour was a very expensive commodity, finally consented to send his creditor a butter cake for Sunday dinner in payment of the mortgage.

1,200 Refugees Now En Route To Shanghai

All the remaining Russian refugees who have been staying in Gensan, Korea, since last October, totaling 1,200, are the refugees now en route to Shanghai, according to information received yesterday.

The refugees sailed on four vessels on August 5 under command of General Lebedev by way of Mokpo, where negotiations for the sale of the ships will be undertaken with a foreign merchant.

General Lebedev was in command of the Eldorado, the vessel which was chartered by Captain L. D. Kearney and which began the series of charges placed against foreigners on alleged gun-running.

The date of the arrival of the latest batch of refugees is not known as yet, but Commissioner for Foreign Affairs Hsu Yuan is on the lookout for them as he has received orders from Peking not to allow them to land.

We had some trouble with them and they decided to take the jewelry. There was no key to the tin box. The jewelry remained in the tin box until they left the house. It was in their room all the time.

MADE OUT LISTS

Was there a list made of this jewelry? Yes. Mr. Evans, myself and the children made the list.

For what purpose was the list made? At one time they thought that the jewelry and the cut glass was going to be sent to their grandmother. Two copies were made. I was not paid for the board of children.

Were you on good terms with the children? We were on quite good terms with the children but we were not on good terms with their uncle and so we made him take them. They left the house, 35 Connaught Road on November 1st. During the time they stayed in the house they had always had trouble about money.

How many boxes did they bring down to your house from Kuling? There were about 32 boxes. When they left the house they took them in lots. The last lot was about 11 or 12 boxes. Carmen and myself packed the boxes. It was in the afternoon that the boxes were finished.

Do you remember the box in which the jewelry was packed? It was a very large brown box. Carmen and myself packed the jewelery. It was packed with their clothes.

When all the boxes were packed who was in the house? Myself, Carmen and Mr. Evans. I think my mother was there too.

Was the box locked? Yes, we both had to sit on it to lock it up. After the box was locked I gave the key to Carmen and she put it on a ring and in the basket. I helped to take the boxes down. She, Carmen, was with me all the time. The coolies, Mr. Evans and myself were helping to carry it down. We keep only one coolie in the house.

Carmen has said that you sent her down to the door while you remained upstairs and that the servants carried the boxes down to where she was? No. I was helping to carry the boxes down.

The younger children went away in the afternoon. After all the boxes were taken away the children never come back again. My brother, Mr. Evans and my mother were in the house that night.

SIGNED RECEIPT

You have heard that they were requested to sign a document before they left the house ? Yes.

Is this the documents (producing one)? Yes.

Why was that done? Because we had trouble with the children and people told us that they would say afterwards that we took the children in because we wanted their things. On Mr. Evans' advice to my mother and myself we requested them to sign the document. I have not worn any of the jewelry. I dislike everything that belonged to a dead person. About four days later Carmen rang me up and asked if she had left any keys in the house. I told her that there were no keys left behind.

"I was employed by the Telephone Co.," went on Miss Trevor-Smith, "when I was interviewed by Chief Inspector Reeves. The conversation took place in the hall just outside the main office."

Mr. Newman: Did you give him any explanation?

The witness: I denied the charge. I was indignant. I was much annoyed.

Mr. King: Only a bit annoyed.?

Miss Smith: I was very annoyed.

"At that time I had received nothing in respect to their board and lodgings. I have not heard from them any more," added the accused.

In June I lost two gold bags and I telephoned to Gordon Road Police Station. Someone advised me to see a detective. I went to see Det. Sergt. Douglas and I described the bags to him. At the time I was wearing two rings, one with a large pearl belonging to my mother and another with a small pearl. I had a pendant and had also two gold bangles.

Did you know Mrs. Kupsch's jewelry? Yes. She had a gold bag. I saw the bag about two years after I came to know her. I think her bag was a little smaller. It was not so wide. She showed it to me once. I did not know the value of it.

Will you tell the Court whose bangle is that? It is mine. It was given to me by Mr. Howard. He is dead now. We used to ride together. Once he had some trouble with Chinese and we assisted him to get out of it. On my birthday I received the bangle from him. It is too light for solid gold. I think there is brass inside. The gold bags were given to me by my brother on my birthday last year. A friend of mine had the case made. The bags were very dirty and had holes in them.

What did you do with them? I took them to my friend and asked him to have it fixed for me. They were then returned to me. I have seen Mrs. Kupsch's bags. They had no holes. I think her's had a flat clasp and a big hook to put it on the arm. The small bag as far as I can remember is exactly the same.

Do you know whether Mrs. Kupsch had disposed of any of her jewelry before she died? I think she did, because I knew that she was in need of money. She had pawned some of the articles. The bangle was one of them.

Were you present when the jewelry was identified? I was not there.

When did you first know what was identified? In Court yesterday. Det. Sergt. Douglas led me to understand that the things were identified.

Did you take any of the articles with which you have been charged with taking from the complainants? No.

Cross-examined by Mr. Maitland the defendant added that when she was arrested she handed her jewelry to the Police. Among those articles there was a large ring with a pearl and a small one.

Mr. Maitland: Do you suggest that Sergt. Douglas could have been mistaken when he took those two rings for one? I do not know. I was wearing two rings, one on the fourth and one on the fifth fingers. I do now know how he came to think that I was wearing one with two pearls.

The small bag was dipped in gold by a friend of mine who had it fixed. I do not know how a child of 15 years goes into the witness box and swears that I wore some of her mother's jewelry.

Did you see all the jewelry on October 31? Yes. It was put into the children's box. I did not send Carmen downstairs to look after the boxes. I do not know why she says I did.

Who is Mr. Evans? He is a friend of mine . He used to live in our house. H does not live with us now. When the boxes were packed Mr. Evans was not at home. He came in about 5.30 or 6 p.m. I believe he is working with Mustard & Co. I have no explanation at all as to how the things came to be identified by the complainants. I was in Peking when the two gold bags were found.

Were they ever missing? I know they were.

Where were they found? I do not know. My mother found them somewhere in the house. I kept them in the office afterwards. Is it extraordinary that I should have the bags dipped in gold the same as Mrs. Kupsch?

Mr. King: Have you a neck-chain with a pendant? Yes.

Did you wear that? I was wearing it when I went to see Det. Sergt. Douglas.

When the children came to the house why did you not suggest that it should be put in a safe? They wanted to have it with them.

Did you advise them? No. A list was made out of the things and one was handed to Mr. Mahnfelt while the other I believe was given to Carmen. There was no trouble at the time.

You do remember the two gold bags, the bangle, but you do not remember the two pendants? Yes. There was also a long chain with watch. I saw the pearl ring once but I cannot tell how the pearls were set.

How many things were there in October, you are charged with stealing six? I should think that there were 20 things.

You suggest that you are telling the truth and they are not telling the truth? I say that these things are mine.

You have no suggestion to make? No.

You must have some suggestion? I do not know why they should blame me .

Mr. King: Blame you! They are doing more than that, they are saying that you are a thief. Can you not make any suggestion?

The accused: No.

Mr. David Evan Evans, of Mustard and Co., gave evidence regarding the disposition of the jewelry when the children came from Kuling and stated that he had seen the card which accompanied the bangle presented to Miss Trevor-Smith by Mr. Howard. He was quite certain the bags exhibited were the same as those belonging to the defendant. The only explanation he could give of the accusation was that the jewelry resembled that of the complainant.

Testimony substantiating that of the defendant was given by Mr. John Trevor-Smith, her brother, and Mrs. Marie Trevor-Smith, her mother, and the case was then adjourned.

Army Has Universal Radio Alphabet

MAR-26-23. W.W.B.C.
Universal radio alphabet.

INVENTION of a new alphabet for radio, land and submarine telegraphing, which would be more accurate and 2.65 times faster than the old code first used by Professor S. F. B. Morse, inventor of telegraphy, has been announced by Major General George O. Squier, Chief Signal Officer of the United States Army. General Squier said the old alphabet was slow, crude and often times inaccurate. The new alphabet, he said, would approach the ideal, using an aternating current in a steady stream, through the adoption of signals of the same length. In the new alphabet, he declared, dots, dashes and spaces would be defferentiated by varying intensities of the senusodial wave, used in the same way that music and speech are formed. This photograph shows the new alphabet machine and a sample of the code system transmitted with the new alphabet.

GAMBLERS FINED

Wholesale gambling in the premises of the Cantonese temple in Woochang Road resulted in a raid by the police Monday afternoon, when 47 Chinese were arrested. A large number escaped. The men arrested were charged at the Mixed Court yesterday. Forty-one were fined $3 each and six who failed to appear forfeited $5 bail money each.

PEKING STILL IS WITHOUT A CABINET

Usual Quibbling Disorganises The Northern Govern- Government

Peking, Aug. 13.—Despite the intrigues and counterintrigues of the Tientsin Clique composed of General Tsao Kun's adherents, a considerable time has yet to elapse before a formal Cabinet can be patched up.

Government circles anticipate that Mr. Chang Hu, the prospective Minister of Finance, will leave Tientsin for Peking this evening. Mr. Chang's intimate friends, however, state that he will not assume office at present realising his inability to meet the demands of the Chihli militarists for funds.

It is estimated that nothing short of four million dollars will be sufficient for Mr. Chang to initiate his administration with. Rumors are current that Mr. Chang has already succeeded in raising a substantial amount with the help of Mr. Tsao Jui, General Tsao Kun's brother, Mr. Wu Yu lin, Minister of Communications, General Wang Cheng-ping, Civil Governor of Chihli, and other influential persons affiliated with the Chihli faction. The public, however, regard such rumors as mere propaganda.

General Wu Pei-fu is reported to be opposing the proposed appointment of Mr. Yuan Sai-kwan as Minister of Agriculture and Commerce.

Mr. Fu Tseng-siang, according to unofficial reports, will be appointed Minister of Education but, it is feared, he may be opposed by Parliament.

Peking, Aug. 13.—A number of Parliamentarians at Shanghai have dispatched a telegram to Mr. de Vos, representative of the Belgian-Dutch Syndicate, opposing the reported conclusion with the acting Cabinet of a loan for $1,000,000, secured on the property of Hulutao and the revenue collected on the Shanghaikwan-Fengtien section of the Peking-Mukden Railway.

Mr. de Vos' attention is called to the Provisional Constitution of the Republic, which necessitates that all national loans shall be approved by Parliament before they are valid.

The message declares that there is no Government in Peking, because the authorities who have usurped governmental functions are illegal. The people of China it says, will never recognise any loan concluded by the interests who are merely agents of General Tsao Kun.

In continuation it states that the militarists are the source of all the troubles in China, banditry and internecine wars, which have seriously affected the welfare and interests of the foreigners as well as the Chinese people.

If, therefore, the foreign financiers still accommodate the Chinese militarists, they will have to reap the fruits of their own sowing but must not lay the blame on the Chinese people for whatever suffering which the foreign residents and traders in China may undergo in consequence of the political turmoils created by the war lords.

Want Junks To Carry Salt

(Independent News Service)

Hankow, Aug. 8.—The Provincial Chamber of Commerce of Szechuen has petitioned to General Wu Pei-fu requesting that the transportation of Szechuen salt be reserved to native junks so as to give thousands of native craft employment. The salt traffic was until recently exclusively enjoyed by the native boats, and steamers are not allowed to carry salt as well as several other lines of Szechuen produce. Recently an agreement has been reached among the Szechuen merchants, the officials and shipping circles whereby the salt business was parceled out between the native junks and steamers half and half. It is not easy to understand why the Szechuen Chamber asks General Wu Pei-fu to change the arrangement, while the previous report stated that the terms had been agreed to by Szechuen merchants.

Fort Mills Nine Coming For Series With The Gallopers

President McIntyre Announces First Of Six Game Argument For Saturday, With Other Games To Follow

President Fred McIntyre of the Baseball Club announced last night that a special series of games had been arranged with the Fort Mills team, of Manila, beginning Saturday. The Fort Millers are now in North China, where they have been playing a series of games with the Fifteenth Infantry and the Peking Marines. The series here will be played on the return trip of the team to Manila.

The Fort Mills series will comprise six games, starting Saturday and continuing on the 19th, 21st, 23rd, 25th and 26th. This will mean games on this coming Saturday and Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday, and the following Saturday and Sunday.

The Manila team is very strong this year, having won the championship of all Manila for the 1923 season previous to their trip north.

Harry Kingman, skipper, returned to town from Tsingtao and expects to be in the line up for Fort Mills series, although his twisted shoulder has not thoroughly healed yet.

KINGMAN AND CLAIRE HELP TO BEAT JAPANESE

Skipper Of Gallopers Takes Part In Game At Tsingtao

(China Press Correspondence)

Tsingtao, Aug. 12.—The past week saw a good baseball game in Tsingtao, a group of Americans from the summer colony pieced out by a few students of the American Academy beating the Diamonds, a strong Japanese nine, by the score of 11 to 3.

Two ex-Shanghai players and one of the present team were in the American line-up. Harry Kingman felt sufficiently recuperated to dance around the first sack and gobble up a few liners and bad pegs in true form, while Claire and Giauque were the battery. Verne Claire is spending his holiday in the Shantung port while Giauque is located in Tsingtao in the American Academy.

Claire was in good shape and mowed down the opposition ruthlessly. Twelve of the Japanese whiffed, and the best they could get was four fluke hits, which, with fast fielding, would not have gone safe. The big hurler also got three hits, a single, triple and homer, the latter going far out of the field.

The box score:

Yachts Are Hampered By Slack Wind, Two Give Up

Four yachts were out in a very slack wind yesterday afternoon but two of the starters finally gave up after many tries. A strong ebb tide made racing especially difficult for the boats would be swept back just after making a little headway.

The course was from the Peking Road Jetty up river round the British Naval Buoy to port, then down river round the Public Garden mark boat and round the markboat on the Pootung side and back to finish at the starting line. The agreement before the start was that if any of the boats got round the naval buoy by six o'clock they would continue and go over the same course twice. They started at 5:30 p.m. However, it was just six o'clock when the Violet, ranked the best boat the club has, cleared the buoy for the return to the markboats. The Haikuan and Oistos had by this time decided to give up the race so they started in for the dock.

The Ella, however, was bound to finish the race and she stuck to the job and spent about an hour trying to clear the buoy. After every one was in and had their boat put away for the night she made an attempt to round the buoy but the tide drove her back near the H.M.S. Bee tied up at Buoy No. 1. In the next try the Ella got around and started for home with the in her favor. She went on round the Garden markboat but when turned to come back around the Pootung boat the same hazard halted her for the tide was again against her. It took some time to round the Pootung boat but finally she crossed the line to receive her much credited five points for second place. The race yesterday afternoon could not very well be called a yacht race for it was more of a drifting match. The wind was one of the slackest this season and if all the boats had finished they would have been out until late last night for as it was the Ella did not get in until 6:45 p.m.

The next harbor race will be Thursday afternoon at 5:30 p.m.

Summaries of yesterday's race: Series—3rd, Race—2nd, Wind—southwest, Force—2, Tide—Ebb.

Course—Upriver round British Naval Buoy to portside, down river round the Garden Markboat, then cross river round Pootung Markboat and to finish at starting line. Distance—3¼ miles.

"Y" QUINTET BEATS TSINGHUA, SCORE 41 TO 15

Local Basketball Five Outclasses Peking Visitors

The basketball team representing the Chinese Y. M. C. A. defeated the quintet of this year's graduating class of Tsinghua college of Peking last night on the "Y" floor by a score of 41 to 15. The Tsinghua graduates are staying here for a short period on their way to America.

While this kind of weather is not at all suitable for the game and most of the players are out of form, the game was nevertheless fast and spectacular. The local team were in better shape, having the advantage of being in the game the whole year round in the gymnasium and the familiarity of the floor helped a great deal in the heaping up of their score. They also had the advantage of weight.

The game started with the homesters going strong, and in about five minutes the score stood at 6 to 0. Then I. S. Hwang, the star forward of the Tsinghua team came out and tossed the ball cleanly into the net for the first goal on his side. The local players then tightened up and began to show a little roughness on their guard line which however soon disappeared due to the strict refereeing of Mr. Ling of the Y's pyhsical department. They soon found little difficulty in piling up their score and when interval came, it stood at 17 to 7.

The second half of the game was featured with the clever shooting of S. P. Koo, who took Pan's place at left forward. Wasting very few shots, he succeeded in netting five goals in a short space of time. Wang, the center, netted three, and Dan and Nee each scored two. Dan played a fast game throughout.

For the visitors, Hwang at right forward was easily the star of the quintet. Hsin and Sun were also fast in the offensive line. But the guards lacked weight and height, and therefore not very effective in keeping the local players down from scoring. On the whole, they put up a creditable showing and they could play cleaner ball than the association players.

The baseball team of the same class will play the Chinese Amateur team this afternoon at five o'clock on the Y.M.C.A. ground on North Szechuen Road extension. Hwang the basketball star and varsity captain in baseball of Tsinghua College, will be on the mound for the graduates, while Albert Chan is expected to pitch for the Amateurs.

Lack Of Rain In Texas Is Sending Cotton Prices Up

New York, Aug. 13.—The cotton market rose fully four dollars a bale as the result of alarming reports of continued dry weather in Texas where little prospects of early relief are seen.

(Reuter's Service)

New York, July 20.—At the present writing Texas is beginning to need rain and the actions of the speculative market have reflected the uneasiness which traders have felt over this phase of the situation. From the outset of the season it has been a common saying in the trade that Texas must this year make good the deficiency of yield likely to be shown by the rest of the cotton belt. Hence the anxiety whenever there are any signs of backward conditions in that state inasmuch as the outlook elsewhere has shown little improvement, although perhaps holding its own.

The president of the Texas Ginner's Association says cotton in parts of central Texas, around Waco and Temple, has been "absolutely eaten up by leaf worm, and the crop reduced there at least 25 percent." He expressed doubt if Texas would gin four million bales, although last week estimates as high as five millions were heard about the trade. Several other authorities have mentioned the army and leaf worm destruction which is said to be menacing part of the Texas crop, one being the entomologist at College Station, Texas, who adds that the supplies of poison are very limited in the state, as indeed, he believes in the entire United States.

The traveler for a large local commission house reports that in the Gulf sections of Texas the crop has been almost ruined by army worms. He insists that last year the army worm did three times as much damage to the Texas crop as the weevil did, and it is rather significant fact that even now comparatively little is being heard of weevil damage in that state. Outside of Texas the crop has made quite favorable progress in some sections, while subject to complaints in others, chiefly from showery conditions in the Eastern belt.

BULLS AIDED

The bull situation has been aided during the week by the knowledge that there is today virtually no unsold American cotton in existence anywhere in the world, the visible supply in this and other countries having been reduced to barely 1,000,000 bales, of which it is said that about all that is of deliverable quality is undoubtedly earmarked to meet the needs of spinners during the nearly two months that must elapse before the new crop is available in other than insignificant quantities. Nor, points out a local merchant, do there remain stocks of cotton in the hands of farmers and others in the interior of the South; as the crop statistics show, these stocks have now to all intents and purposes been completely exhausted by the demand from the world's markets.

According to the head of the American Cotton Association, a complete census of cotton supplies, both foreign and domestic, will be taken by the Department of Commerce. It wil commence on August 1, and will be speedily pushed to conclusion. He says assurance has been given that every safeguard will be used to avoid duplication; that repacks, linters and unspinnible cotton will be deducted from stocks being shown as commercial cotton and the results secured will show actual supplies of spinnable cotton, both foreign and domestic.

LEGISLATION ASSURED

The same authority also says that at the next session of Congress the passage of greatly needed legislation completely amending the present system of crop reporting is assured. He says the feeling prevails that, that there should be no report on the indicated yield of the cotton crop earlier than September.

In reviewing the situation, a local writer on cotton and economic subjects says a merchant who sells cotton to the mills told him that while manufacturers would not buy cotton now, they all admitted that their stocks were small and that they would have to buy largely in the autumn. The claim is made that the whole world is waiting to buy cotton. Retailers have been selling freely without replenishing their stocks and manufacturers have pursued the same policy. The fact that spot cotton is selling at a premium of nearly three cents a pound over new crop futures has deterred everyone in the trade from purchasing either cotton or cotton goods.

As an indication of the extent of co-operative marketing this season, it is noted that the treasurer of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Association is in New York negotiating with banks for a loan of $40,000,000 to finance the co-operative marketing of 250,000 bales of Texas cotton the coming season. The loan will be secured by cotton stored in the Association's warehouse at Houston, Texas and at other Texas points. The total loan will approximate 70 percent of the market value of the cotton. He declares that co-operative marketing of cotton will put an additional $275,000,000 a year into the pockets of the Southern farmer, and thinks 250,000 bales will be handled by the Association in Texas alone this year.

Rich Merchant Gets Monopoly To Sell Opium

Kiukiang, Aug. 13.—A monopoly in the traffic of opium has been granted to a wealthy local merchant, surnamed Chen, by the military officials in the provincial capital.

The monopoly is noteworthy in that the organisation which runs the illicit business bears the signboard of Opium Suppression Bureau and Chen is referred to by his staff as the Commissioner.

It is reported that Chen contributes the sum of $25,000 per mensem to the high officials as "revenue" collected by the said bureau.

Protected by the troops who are placed under his disposal, Chen is at liberty to levy exorbitant imposts on the opium dens and to sell his own "medicine" through his agents at handsome profits.

New Yellow River Dykes Successfully Withstand Attacks Of High Water

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, Aug. 11.—Reports from the Chief Engineer in charge of the work of constructing the Yellow River dykes under the contract between the Shantung provincial authorities and the Asia Development Company indicate that, in contradiction of the reports in some of the Chinese papers, the new dykes are withstanding with entire success the high water in the river. Three high water peaks have come and gone, and everything remains in good condition, he reports.

On August 8 the conditions were as follows:

The river was flowing with good volume and velocity in the new channel. The stream was about 1,000 feet wide, from twenty-five to forty feet deep and running with a current of over seven feet per second.

DAM PERFECTLY SAFE

The cut-off dam was perfectly safe and tight and the flood had caused a beach to form along the front of the dam, with the result that the water along two-thirds of the length of the dam was less than one feet deep. The groyne which was built to cause this silting, and thus to protect the dam from scouring, has fulfilled its purpose admirably.

The Asia Development Company's men were busy excavating channels on the south side of the Leading Channel, to cause scour of the spoil bank and thus give the river an easier channel in which to flow. An attempt had been made earlier to excavate here, but the workmen were driven off and beaten and it was not possible to carry out the plan. On August 3 another attempt at excavating these channels was made, as called for by the original plan, and this time successfully as the Civil Governor had issued definite instructions that the workers should not be molested.

LARGER AREA NEEDED

Had it been possible to dig the channel as originally planned, the scouring on the north side of the Leading Channel would have been avoided. The river had to have a larger area, and as it could not get it along the south side of the channel, it quite naturally scoured out part of the dyke on the north side. Fortunately for the work, this was a two-hundred foot dyke and was able to withstand the scour. Unsuccessful attempts were made to stop the scour with kaoliang packs. But the scour continued until the river had secured a comfortable bed. This was accomplished partly by scoring the dyke on the north side and later by scoring along the south side of the Leading Channel after the small channels along the spoil bank had been completed.

At the time of writing the river was in flood and about at its peak, with the river flowing smoothly in the new channel. Such scour as was taking place could easily be handled with a little care. There was no cause for alarm and the safety of the work was assured.

CROPS INCREASED

Some of the local gentry were widening "E" dyke although this was built with a 110 foot base which was ample. This dyke is much heavier than the old ones which it joins. The farmers declare they have such wonderful crops coming on in the reclaimed land that they can afford to do this work as their contribution for future added safety.

The crops throughout the reclaimed land are remarkably good. The engineer, Mr. F. L. Patstone, reports that he rode eight miles down to Linchin to examine the lower channel and along the way he was greatly impressed by the wonderful crops. The bean crop is especially promising, the plants averaging nearly two feet in height.

The river in the lower channel was within two feet of the top of the dyke in some places, and the people were ready with the necessary materials to raise the dyke if necessary. Most of the Yellow River work below the Asia Development Company project seemed to be in good condition.

B.W.A. Concert On Friday

The first open-air concert of the series to be held in the grounds of the Hotel Majestic, Bubbling Well Road, will take on Friday at 9:30 p.m.

An excellent program, including selections by the British Amateur Orchestra, has been arranged and to those who are compelled to remain here during the hot weather, these concerts should prove a welcome addition to the usual attractions to be found in Shanghai at this time of the year.

Seats are free but the small sum of fifty cents will be charged for admission, the proceeds to go towards the B.W.A. endowment fund.

Cool drinks and light refreshments will be served during the evening by the Hongkong Hotels, Co., Ltd.

Straw In Bath House Causes Fire Outbreak

A fire which threatened for a time to develop into serious proportions broke out shortly before 8.30 o'clock last night in a bath house near the corner of Tiendong and North Kiangse Roads. The blaze originated in a large quantity of straw which had been stored at the back of the first floor and was ignited by sparks from the heater. There was dense smoke and a very hot fire for a time but the outbreak was successfully checked by Hongkew Division of the Fire Department under the direction of Station Officer Vincent.

SENTENCE THREE FOR DEFRAUDING SINCERE'S STORE

The three Chinese swindlers—two men and a woman—who, through the establishment of a bogus bank defrauded the Sincere Company of $3,500 a few weeks ago were sentenced by Assessor Jacobs and Magistrate Yui of the Mixed Court yesterday. The principal accused was given a term of two years, the other man received a one year sentence and the woman was sentenced to three months, this latter to be suspended until she is brought before the court again. If the first accused makes payment of $750, the amount paid by purchases of some of the jewelry secured through the fraud, six months of his sentence are to be remitted.

It was shown by the evidence that the two male accused opened up what purported to be a small native bank in Nanking Road. On a Saturday afternoon they sent the woman accused and another to Sincere's, where they selected $3,200 worth of jewelry and tendered orders on the supposed bank in the amount of $3,500. The orders were taken to the bank by one of the store's employes and he was told that as it was after banking hours they should be presented the following Monday. On the Monday the establishment was found to have been closed.

Parliament Nears Quorum As More Solons Come Here

Official records at the Frenchtown office of the Chinese Parliament show that at present 105 senators and 268 Congressmen are registered here, while 52 Fengtien solons and 28 Tientsin members have assured the local assembly that they would come as soon as a quorum can be secured. The quorums for the Senate and the House are 135 and 295 respectively.

The provinces supporting the movement to have Parliament hold a session here have advanced the sum of $212,200 since the departure of its members from Peking after the ousting of Li Yuan-hung.

Five more members arrived in Shanghai yesterday.

Western Hunan Menaced By Belligerents

(Independent News Service)

Hankow, August 8—Western Hunan districts are in an increasingly complicated military situation owing to the strained relations between Kuomintang troops there and Changsha's forces. The opposing forces have been on warpath for some time, but no fighting has actually taken place so far. However, the chaos that follows brings awful consequences to the merchants.

Some Kweichow troops have suddenly invaded into Tsinghsien in Hunan with the announced purpose of helping out in the proposed expedition against Changsha. When they arrived there was much disturbance among the populace there, but through mediation of the local gentry, the troops finally put up a proposition that they would guarantee peace in that territory provided the merchants make a loan of $50,000 to them. Already some $2,000 has been raised and is reported to have been turned over to the soldiery.

A similar case happened at Hungkiang where the Chamber of Commerce was pressed for $30,000 which the troops demand for thir traveling expenses. They pointed out that if the sum is paid, they will move to another place.

Military extortion is universally practised by all commanders in Hunan, and it is expected that when open warfare breaks out, the sufferings of the people will be enhanced considerably.

German Women Protest Use Of Colored Troops

Exclusive Dispatch To THE CHINA PRESS

Berlin, Aug. 13.—German women today addressed an appeal to President Calvin Coolidge asking that the United States take a hand in forcing France to discontinue the use of black troops in the Ruhr.

"We German women appeal to the President of the United States, which is known for its protection of white women, to help us avert the ignominy and disgrace which threatens us," the message which was sent to the President read.

The appeal was made in behalf of the wives of evicted railway workers in Travis district who have been forced to remain behind while their husbands have been deported by the French. The Germans allege that the commander of troops in that district ordered the colored troops billetted in the homes of the evicted workers.

Wedding

KERR—MCCANN

Miss Flora Kerr of Los Angeles became the bride of Mr. Robert E. McCann of the Asia Development Company at Yokohama on August 9, immediately after her arrival on the Shinyo Maru.

Miss Kerr was the guest of honor at a special dinner given on the vessel just before it docked at which all the passengers were present. Mr. McCann met the ship at the dock and the wedding took place at the American Consulate-General immediately afterward.

During the bandit trouble at Tsao Chuang Mr. McCann, who was then on the construction of the Yellow River dam at Tsinanfu, became a member of the relief party and with Mr. Carl Crow of Shanghai had charge of the provisioning of the captives.

After a honeymoon in Japan and North China Mr. and Mrs. McCann will make their home in Shanghai.

Chinese Gunboats Go To Yochow

(Independent News Service)

Hankow, Aug. 8.—Two Chinese men-of-war have just been despatched from Hankow to Yochow on the Hunan-Hupeh border with a view to assisting the Hunan governor, General Chao Heng-ti in the event of an attack from his enemies. The gunboats, Tsochien and Huying were ordered from the lower Yangtsze by General Wu Pei-fu who is reported to be concerned about unpleasant developments in Hunan Province, the gateway between the North and the South.

Peking And Tientsin Fear Heavy Floods

Peking, Aug. 13.—Warnings have been given by experts that Peking, Tientsin and Paotingfu will soon be visited by heavy floods.

Already the Hutoho and Yungtingho, which are tributaries of Peiho (White River), are swollen. The region near Tangku has been inundated and the railway tracks there have been submerged. The up-going Peking-Mukden train today was halted at Liushiuyin and the through passenger service has been suspended.

NOTICE

MUNICIPAL LOAN OF 1923

8.000 debentures of Tls. 100 each
(issued at Tls. 97 each)

Rate of interest 6% per annum

The "Conseil d'Administration Municipale de la Concession Francaise de Changhai" hereby invite subscriptions for 8.000 debentures of Tls. 100 each, issued at Tls. 97 each according to the resolution passed at their General Meeting on the 14th May 1923.

The conditions on which the Debenture Certificates will be issued are:

1°.—The Debenture Certificates are transferable, and the person whose name is entered in the Register of Debenture Certificate or Certificates, shall alone be recognised and treated by the Council as the lawful and rightful holder and owner of such Debenture Certificate or Certificates.

2°.—The Debentures will be issued at Tls. 97 each.

3°.—The Debentures will be redeemable at par (Tls. 100 each) in not less than 10 years and not more than 30 years, from 1st December 1933 and according to the figures determinated by the Council.

4°.—The Debentures will bear interest at 6% per annum, payable on the 31st day of May and 30th day of November in each year, when interest warrants will be issued to the registered owners.

5°.—The Debenture Certificates will be issued and bear interest from 1st July 1923.

6°.—Applications for Debentures will be received at the Secretary's Office, Rue du Consulat, from June 20 next.

A cheque representing the amount of debentures asked for and payable on June 30th must be deposited at the same time.

7°.—Applications for Debentures under 97 will not be recognised by the Council.

8°.—For further informations, apply to Mr. P. Legendre, Secretary, French Municipal Council,

Shanghai, 31st May 1923.

By order,
P. LEGENDRE
Secretary.

Ichang Tai Wo Cheong Tea Hong

We beg to inform the public that our Hong in Ichang in the Province of Hupeh, China, has been established for over 40 years specially preparing Ichang Black Teas under the two famous chops "Wo Kee" and "Sin Pin" which are well known to all tea merchants abroad as well as in China. We have always been careful to select the finest leaves which give the best taste.

This year the tea is exceedingly good on account of fine weather, and we have prepared 414 chests of "Wo Kee" and 418 chests of "Sin Pin" which were all sold to the American firm of Wisner & Co. and the British firm of Dodwell & Co. In each of these chests there is a ticket bearing our Trade Mark Dragon and Phoenix and the Chinese characters "Tai Wo Cheong Tea Hong."

TONG LONG SHAN, HANKOW, CHINA,
Sole Proprietor of Ichang Tai Wo Cheong Tea Hong

Heroines Of World's History

In the early part of the last century higher education was denied to women.

When a high-spirited young girl named Elizabeth Cady discovered that she could not attend the college where her brother was receiving his education, or any other college, she was indignant.

In all probability this was the first impetus which started this brilliant woman on her life-long crusade for freedom for women.

So seriously did she consider the drawbacks which marriage presented to women that when she fell in love with the distinguished anti-slavery orator, Henr B. Stanton, she hesitate to marry him because she realized that Blackstone's theory "a man and wife are one and th man is the one" held true.

However, she did marry M Stanton, and although she wa what was called in derision b most people "an advanced woman," she proved that she possessed every quality for a splendid wife and mother.

To the Stantons weer bor seven children, but Mrs. Stanton' home duties did not prevent he from being one of the first an most earnest crusaders for th emancipation of women.

In July, 1848, the first woman's rights convention too place at Seneca Falls, New Yor

Here Lucretia Mott and Mr Stanton were the two flamin torches which were to blaze th trail through the tangled wilderness in which most thinkin women were then wandering.

If she could but see complet today the great work which sh was one of the first to unde take!

The convention was ridicul in every paper. Most peopl thought that this grave group o women were "not quite normal.

Interested also in this ne movement was Susan B. Anthony who was working in her hom State, Illinois. During the development of the crusade fo freedom for women Mrs. Stanto became acquainted with Susa B. Authony.

From this meeting a remarkable and very beautiful frien ship started and endured withou interruption for 50 years.

Together these two de friends worked and planne Together they wrote and published "The History of Woma Suffrage" in America, defrayin the expenses of publishing b earning money on the lectur platform.

In 1902 Elizabeth Cady Stanton died at the age of eighty seven.

Newport, Rhode Island, Au 13.—Raphael Pumpelly, who wa one of the world's greate geologists, is dead.

Rapheal Pumpelly, author an geologist, was born at Osweg New York in 1837 and was ther fore at the time of his death 8 years of age. Included in th numerous scientific exploration that he made after an enterpris in the Island of Corsica was scientific exploration he made fo the Japanese Government in 186 to 1863 and following this he wa in charge of a geologic expeditio through central western an northern China and Mongolia i the years 1863-64.

In 1864 he made an exploratio of the northern coal fields o China for the Imperial Gover ment. This was followed by journey across the Gobi dese when he returned to the Unite States going through Europe b way of Siberia. From 1866 t 1873 he was Professor of Minin at Harvard University

It was after he became Chief o Division, United States Geologi Survey that the tremendousl important discoveries were mad by Northern Transcontinenta Survey which he organised. Upo these discoveries of coal area i northern Michigan rest much o the progress and development o the steel industry in America. Mos noteworthy of his later investiga tions perhaps was a physica geographical and archeologica investigation that he directed i Central Asia in 1903—04 under th auspices of the Carnegie Institut

He is author of a long list o authoritative volumes devoted t geologic and mining research i many corners of the world,

The British Note

GREAT Britain's note to France and Belgium makes clear the schism that the seizure of the Ruhr basin has created between these loyal allies of the Great War. And while there is much to be said on both sides, the crisis with which we are confronted requires immediate solution if a new war and a complete economic collapse are to be averted.

The British note after offering generous concessions for peace states that the situation in the Ruhr is intolerable and that the Franco-Belgian plan is doomed to failure. It further sets forth its belief that a decision "cannot much longer be delayed." There is a further suggestion that the French ought forthwith to begin to pay at least the interest on their war debt to Britain.

The obvious French reply is that France has never for a moment considered repudiation of her war debts but that she cannot begin to pay until she begins to collect; further, that Germany owes the money and must be made to pay, and that inasmuch as Italy, America and Britain have refused to join her in putting pressure on Germany, she has taken over the job on her own and is prepared at whatever cost to make Germany pay.

The visible effect in Germany of all this, is a renewed trend towards Bolshevism. The government once more is overturned. Communist uprisings are more frequent. Law and order no longer exist. Chaos rules. And this makes the British effort to come to the rescue of the European world all the more difficult. For Britain and America, the really solvent great nations, will have nothing to do with Bolshevism. And France, Belgium and Poland with powerful and well equipped armies, have no fear of their ability to suppress any show of force possible from demoralised and disorganised Germany and Russia.

Again, we have the German saying that he cannot pay while France throttles him in his industrial life—and with this view the British are inclined to agree. They think that with steady pressure and given a chance by means of a moratorium, the Germans would have settled down to work and to steady payments towards the reduction of their debt. And further that the French seizure of the richest German industrial district has made this impossible. To which the French reply that for four years the Germans, notwithstanding all arguments and threats, had refused to pay, and that only seizure of their richest territory would enforce upon their attention the need of them to pay if they were to be free.

On top of all this we have to consider that the world wishes two things: It wishes Germany to pay and it does not want another war. France wants to pay her debts and she feels that she cannot pay them unless Germany pays her. Again, it seems fairly clear that Germany cannot pay so long as France holds the Ruhr district.

In these circumstances it appears reasonable to suggest the possibility of a "book arrangement." France owes Great Britain and the United States about six billion gold dollars. If this debt was wiped off the French slate and transferred to the German slate would France be satisfied to give the Ruhr back to Germany? Would Germany agree to pay America and England rather than France? It is, after all, France that Germany doesn't want to pay. With France cleared of this enormous indebtedness, and Germany heavily indebted to America and England, the whole world situation would be clarified, for America and England can afford to wait for their money and France can't. Any suggestion along this line is merely inviting trouble, we realise, but we don't get anywhere without suggestions.

That might destroy the wall I strove to rear
Shutting out all that once I held most dear,
Lest I should hunger for your blame or praise.

But when once more I heard the little air
You used to sing, just whistled in the street,
Sudden my pretense fell about my feet,
And my defenses were stripped wide and bare:
Ah, Love that I should count myself so strong,
When all my pride is shattered by a song!

The Man And His Problems

BY "THE IDLER"

It was a glorious autumn afternoon, in 1916. The New England foliage was turning every hue and color after the first touch of frost. It was the beginning of the Indian summer when all the earth seemed to relax for a moment, before donning her winter garments of repose. As the motor car sped along the white winding roads of Western Massachusetts toward the purple Berkshires in the distance, there came the acrid tang of brushwood fires, mingled with the delicate fragrance of freshly cut hay—the last crop of the year.

The little city of Northampton, renowned for its institutions of learning, seemed quite in character with the landscape. It was neat, orderly, and erudite—a town whose outward appearance at least reflected the "well ordered and placid" minds of its dwellers.

The house before which the motor car stopped was a two-family affair, with separate entrances—and lawns, each with its own orderly flower bed arranged in geometric formation at the same distance from the sidewalk. "Is this unpretentious house the residence of the Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts? There must be a mistake," I thought, as I rang the bell and asked to see Governor Coolidge.

"Oh oh! So you're the man that's come to fix the hose? Mr. Coolidge has been waiting an hour for you. He's back in the garage. You'd better hurry." The Keltic "General" informed me laconically and slammed the door. I took a good look at my dusty clothes, and decided that perhaps I was "the man to fix the hose."

I walked around the side of the house, and as I did so a voice called after me, "Here's the hose man, Mr. Coolidge!"

A gentleman emerged from the door of the garage, carrying a length of garden hose in one hand, and a patent lawn sprinkler and a pair of pliers in the other. He was a rather thin sparsely built man, hair slightly greying at the temples, clearly chiselled features, a somewhat aquiline nose, and a firm chin. When he looked up I saw that his eyes were blue grey with little steely points in them that looked you through and through. His mouth, however, was perhaps the most remarkable feature, a thin straight line.

"Well I'm glad you've come at last," he remarked. "This sprinkler which I bought about a week ago is not right. The trouble seems to be on the inside, either the faces of water is not strong enough to make it revolve, or else it is this bolt which seems to catch, and stop it. You are an expert in these things I presume, see what you can make of it," thrusting the recalcitrant sprinkler into my hands.

"I'm sorry I'm not the hose man," I remarked hesitatingly. "I drove out from Boston to get an interview with you—I thought an appointment had been made," I stammered.

Governor Coolidge looked at me for the first time. He hesitated a moment, then gave me a quiet smile.

"I have been away all day on a picnic with my family; that is why I did not receive your message," he apologised. "So you don't know anything more about garden sprinklers than I do. But, I thought reporters knew everything." the last was a thrust at one of the Boston opposition papers which had been publishing a series, "Revelations Regarding the Commonwealth Government."

I endeavored to make a sweeping denial of the last statement, defending my confreres of the Fourth Estate, and placing all the blame upon over zealous editors, who had been known to distort the news to serve their own political ends.

"I know, I know all about it," Mr. Coolidge replied kindly. "If it is agreeable to you we might sit out here in the garden. Fire ahead with your questions, and I will try to answer them, while I tinker with this sprinkler. I don't think that there is anything radically wrong with it, merely a case of adjustment somewhere.'

And so we talked of many things, men, cities and events. The Governor replied kindly and courteously to my questions, usually giving a direct answer, frequently a monosyllable, sometimes enlarging upon a point, sometimes giving me a confidence, which was not matter for publication.

Among other things he told of his recent trip "back home" to Vermont, his joy in seeing his father again, after a lapse of some six months, and of how he helped to harvest the crop. Since his return from the Northern state he had returned to Northampton to be with his wife and boys in his former home, where he made his first legal battle, and where all the neighbors and friends speak of him as "Cal" Coolidge, in terms of friendship. He was especially interested in the progress of the War in Europe, and when he found that I had been overseas during the first two years, plied me with many intelligent questions regarding the strength of the various armies, the psychology of the fighters, the personalities of the great leaders, both military and diplomatic, and my opinion regarding the outcome. He was heart and soul in favor of the cause of the Allies, (America was not got in the war) and the amount of reading and research he must have done to have learned so much regarding the various issues at stake was highly surprising.

The shadows lengthened, the blue hills turned from blue to heliotrope to gold as the last rays of the sun touched them. In the late twilight we still talked on, until a robust youngster came running down the path to his father, put one arm over his shoulder and said, "Dad, Mother says, dinner's ready." I was introduced to "Junior," and invited to remain for the evening meal but declined, stating that I must "put my story on the wire, in order that you may read it with your coffee in the morning." We parted the best of friends, and I apologised again for the mistake regarding my identity, adding that I hoped he would get his sprinkler mended the following day. He replied, "I think the best way is for me to take it to the maker myself, then I can be sure it is done right."

I met Governor Coolidge again some three years later, during the police strike riots in Boston.

After some two months of altercation between the various political factions in the City of Boston, the political bosses, to show how much they regarded the mayor's authority, had threatened to foment a strike of the municipal police in order to force the mayor to do their bidding. The Mayor, who was vacillating first agreed to certain measures; then when he found that they were directly contrary to the will of his constituents, executed a volte face and "called the bluff" of the bosses. The latter, in order to make good their threats, succeeded in organising a strike, so that the entire Metropolitan Police Force went out in a body at five o'clock one evening.

A wave of lawlessness swept over the city. Hoodlums, gangster leaders, thieves and pickpockets hastened to Boston, with the result that it was absolutely unsafe for lawabiding citizens to venture forth after dark. Governor Coolidge immediately summoned the mayor to a conference at the State Capitol, and the latter informed the Governor that he was powerless to do anything. Without a moment's hesitation Governor Coolidge issued orders calling out the State Guard, who arrived some four hours later and camped on Boston Common.

The second night of the strike, I was in South Boston attached to one of the Company Headquarters. A sortie had been made earlier in the evening, three men had been shot in the act of looting a small jewellery store, while score of others had been captured.

Earlier in the evening, there had been a very heavy thunder shower, and it was still raining. The sentry's challenge brought us all to our feet instantly, wondering what was coming next. The pass word was given and a moment later the tent flap parted, admitting Governor Coolidge with his Miliary aide. The Governor was dripping wet, but seemed not to mind it a bit, and anxiously inquired the latest news.

When informed that three looters had been shot dead earlier in the evening, he appeared very grave, and hesitated several minutes before replying, "An unfortunate incident, captain, very unfortunate. Was there no other way?" "None, sir," the captain replied. "The sentry saw the men come out of the shop with their arms filled with loot. He ordered hem to halt three times. One man drew a revolver and fired at the sentry, wounding him in the leg. The men were making good their escape when another of my men, attracted by the sound of the firing, rushed to the rescue, and fired, killing two instantly and wounding the third, who died later, on the way to the hospital. Here is my official report of the affair," he said, handing Governor Coolidge several typewritten sheets. The latter glanced at them and handed them back with the remark, "You did right, captain. Law and order must be upheld at all costs, no matter how great." Governor Coolidge left in the rain to continue his round of inspections on foot.

Governor Calvin Coolidge has now become President Calvin Coolidge of the United States of America. He is a man of action, untiring energy, and indomitable will. A deep student of international problems, a man of letters, and of deep and lasting convictions. The United States is indeed fortunate to have such an able executive at the helm of the Ship of State in these difficult times. It has been frequently suggested by some of his admirers that he may develop into another Theodore Roosevelt, who met the analagous political fate of being "shelved" into the Vice-Presidency because the political leaders felt that he could not be "managed." President Coolidge does not possess the ebullient personality of Mr. Roosevelt, but arrives at decisions through calm and deliberate judgment.

It is believed that he will follow out as far as possible the policies of President Harding, particularly with reference to foreign entanglements and the Court of World Peace. The fact that one of his first proclamations was that for the present at least there would be no change in the present Cabinet, nor in the diplomatic or consular staffs abroad is significant. He has further urged all ambassadors and ministers representing the United States in foreign lands to continue the various negotiations at present under way.

The domestic problems which confront President Coolidge are many and varied. One of the first questions to be decided is the future policy of the United States in the Philippines. There are rumors afloat that the recalcitant Filipino statesmen are already preparing to send another Independence Mission to the United States to demand the recall of Governor-General Leonard Wood and the appointment of a Filipino Governor General in his stead, and to force the whole issue of complete severance of ties with the United States. It is thought that President Coolidge will uphold General Wood's action, thereby settling the Independence question for some time.

Unless an extraordinary session of Congress is called before next December, a step which is hardly likely, one of the most important problems to be decided then will be the question of immigration into the United States. At the present time Mr. Secretary Davis is travelling through Europe establishing "test bureaux" in every large capital, so that the intending emigrants may be examined in their own country before starting forth on the voyage to the United States, only to be turned back at Ellis Island.

The Soldier's Bonus bill is still hanging fire. A great fight will be made to push it through in one form or another at the next session of Congress.

The inauguration of adequate rural credit systems will be another task for President Coolidge. Although great progress was made along this line by President Harding, the credits were insufficient, and the "Farm Bloc" is clamoring for increased government assistance.

What is to be done with the U. S. Shipping Board fleet? Will all the vessels finally revert to private ownership, to be operated under Government subsidies, or will the financing have to be borne by private individuals.

And last, but by no means least, is the question of prohibition. New York State by a recent measure passed by the State Legislature has virtually issued defiance to the Federal Government. Will the time-honored question of "State's Rights" become involved, or will New York be forced to back down from the stand taken at present?

The foregoing are only a few of the most vital national problems which will have to be settled one way or another before the next presidential election, otherwise they will become party issues.

Memorial services were held throughout the world to commemorate the death of President Harding. Prayers were offered for the rest of his soul and the comfort and protection of his widow. But today every patriotic citizen of the United States, and every friend of America should first offer up thanksgiving that the United States has such an able man at the helm, as well as supplications that he may be given strength and courage in his deliberations, and that at all times he should remember that he is the great servant—rather than the master—of one hundred million fellow men.

:-: The Drum :-:

BY RITA WEIMAN

We were discussing music—less as an art than as a factor in life—as a direct influence on human emotions. And one of us, a woman who is herself a brilliant musician startled us by saying:

"Have you ever considered the importance of the drum?"

We hadn't even thought about it.

"It's the most vital instrument in the orchestra," she added. "Without having to be keyed like the others, it is the one which holds the entire orchestra together. It marks the rhythm, the appeal to the emotions of those who listen. Its sound, soundless as it is, is the beat that throbs through the body of the music. And yet it has no melody, no beauty."

The idea was so entirely new that even the musicians among us paused to listen to her.

"It is the motive power of all music, the one used to stimulate the most intense emotions," she went on. "The stringed instrument makes its appeal to romance; the flute to fantasy; but when the big emotions are to be brought into play it is the drum that rumbles forth and carries us off our feet. In Araby they use it alone—to terrify, to rouse the thirst for blood. The tomtom, with its steady, monotonous beat, can call forth all the savage there is in the savage."

I thought of "Emperor Jones" and the horrifying effect of that even-beating thump on the audience, the lump of nervous terror it brought finally to the throat.

"Take the Indian's war dance; take Wagner's crashing climaxes; take the Chopin funeral march; take the wailing note of the Russian dances; take any military music—the call to arms, the march to battle; what is the throbbing note that gets you? Its rythm is as certain as life and death. When it stops, the orchestra disintegrates."

And suddenly it struck me that the drum of the human orchestra is the heart. Its steady beat, unheard, unfelt, is not only the note that holds the human body together, but the motive power marking time for all the other instruments that create the music of life. Without it we not only die physically, but if its beat in relation to the rest of the world waver we are out of tune with living; we become useless instruments in the ensemble that makes the great orchestra of humanity thunder forth its music.

In love, in terror, in joy, in fear it is the heart, beating more quickly or slowly than normal, which regulates the response to emotion, the outcome of it. Like the drum, it can rouse us to greatness or abject misery, to exaltation or dread, to the kiss or the blow. Its beat is the stimulus and measure of our reactions. Its power is limitless. It can carry us to the heights of achievement. It can surround us with the melody of love. It can jazz us through life. It can lift us to the point of ecstasy. It can sound the note of sympathy, the desire to rectify discord. It can throb to a paean of glory, the joy of just being alive.

But one thing is as truly timed as its own movement—once the drum of the heart beats for self alone, it might just as well cease to beat. When its impulse to throb for the rest of humanity is stilled; when only day-to-day living keeps it going; when it takes no count of cries of anguish; when the beat of its measure ceases to be attuned to sympathy, to hope, to help; then, and then alone, is it useless, monotonous, a thing instead of an instrument divine. When it ceases to vibrate to the call that is its reason for being, the violin, which is the sweetness of life, breaks its strings; the 'cello, which is the pathos, loses its tender note; the flute, which is happiness, goes hollow. The song of living is without tune.

And for us, there is this ultimate balance: As long as the drum of the heart beats for others we march to the joy of living. When it beats for no other than self, it is out of rhythm and throws every other instrument out of rhythm. The whole orchestra of our life plays in discord. We might just as well halt it altogether.

NEW GEMS by O. HENRY

A Treasure-Trove of Humor From His Newly Discovered Newspaper Writings

A BRILLIANT IDEA

He was seated on an empty box on Main Street late yesterday evening during the cold drizzling rain. He was poorly clad and his thin coat was buttoned up high under his chin. He had a woeful, harassed appearance, and there was something about him that indicated that he was different from the average tramp who beats his way by lies and fraud.

The Post man felt a touch of sympathy and went up to him and said:

"There's a place around the corner where you can get a lunch and lodging for a small sum. When did you strike town?"

The man gazed at the reporter out of his small, keen eyes and said:

"You're a new man on the Post, are you not?"

"Yes, comparatively."

"Do you see that block of three story buildings over there?"

"Yes."

"Well, I own them and I was just sitting here studying what I'm going to do."

"What's the trouble?"

"Why, the walls are cracking and bulging out on the sides, and I'm afraid I'm going to have to put a lot of money into repairs. I've got over one hundred tenants in those buildings."

"I'll tell you what to do."

"What?"

"You say the walls are bulging out?"

"Yes."

"Well, that makes more room everywhere. You just raise all your tenants' rent on account of the extra space."

"Young man, you're a genius I'll put rents up 20 percent tomorrow."

And one more capitalist was saved.

BY EASY STAGES

"You're at the wrong place," said Gerberus. "This is the gate that leads to the infernal regions, while this is a passport to Heaven that you have handed me."

"I know it," said the departed shade, wearily, "but it allows a stop-over here. You see I'm from Galveston and I've got to make the change gradually."

More Truth Than Poetry

BY S. E. KISER

He still sits pretty, and he smiles—
The rich war profiteer—
He has no dread of afterwhiles,
His heart is free from fear;
The prospect of a term in jail
No longer spoils his cheer.

While others saved democracy
He grabbed what he could get;
Because he gougged and cheated, we
Pay heavy taxes yet,
And as he rides along he laughs
At those who work and sweat.

A jolly wight he is, indeed;
The clothes he wears are new,
While others lack the things they need
His gloomy days are few;
He has his ample cellars stocked
With stuff of choicest brew.

He hands a nickel, now and then,
To one who lost his sight
Where men were shooting other men
And hell broke loose at night;
Thereby the rich war profiteer
Believes he sets things right.

He owns a fancy country place,
And has a house in town;
No lines of trouble mar his face,
He's fat and sleek and brown;
I'd like to get the dividends
That he is dragging down.

Luck's with the rich war profiteer;
He used to quake and quail
Whenever he was passing near
A court house or a jail,
But all his fears are gone for good.
Thus ends the little tale.

Filipino Woman Sits On Eggs And Hatches Ducks

Old Custom Of "Balut" Making In Philippines Is Ridiculed By American Correspondent

BY JUNIUS B. WOOD

Manila, P. I.—"Among the interesting sights of the Philippines are the women of Pateros as they sit on eggs and hatch out the ducks that have made the village famous," said Captain H. L. Heath at a meeting of the American Chamber of Commerce.

Patient housewives sitting on eggs—no time for morning bargain sales, afternoon teas or evening cabarets! That would be a sight worth going miles to see. All the visitors from the United States and half the members of the chamber of commerce went to investigate. Pateros lies within sight of Manila's spires. Its name means "duck raisers."

But times have changed and another picturesque feature of the Philippines has gone. Not a woman could be found upholding the traditions of Pateros. They were sitting, it is true but were holding husky babies or resting in the shade of the houses. There were ducks, too, millions of them of every age from fresh eggs to irascible old drakes. But men and boys were tending to the eggs, surpervising the hatching and caring for the ducklings or herding the cocks. "Let the men do the work," say the new women of Pateros. Their grandmothers made the town famous but this is another age.

The village is worth a visit. Everybody raises ducks. The output averages three a minute, year in and year out. That is too fast for the old fashioned mother ducks and they never have a chance to set—they just keep right on laying eggs.

It is all done without modern incubators. The Pateros have an apparatus which is just as efficient. It is the Chinese incubator—the daddy of them all.

Under each house is a trough like a feed bin, about three feet deep of the same width, and from ten to twenty feet long. Bushel baskets are filled with eggs, packed in rice chaff and placed in two rows down the trough. This is filled with more rice chaff that has been heated and the eggs are left until they are just ready to hatch.

At that critical stage they are taken out and spread in a single layer over a long table with a raised edge. One table may have 2,000 to 3,000 hatching eggs and a continuous crackle of breaking shells. As fast as the ducklings break through, boys transfer them from the table to a part of the room that has been fenced off. When they can walk they are penned outside near the creek.

Before the eggs are put in the basket, old men, who squat on the ground, test them faster than could any professional candler. Each egg as it passes from one pile to another, is snapped by a horny finger against the shell. The sound tells the tester whether the egg is eligible to graduate into a duck.

Pateros is also the birthplace of the baloot, a by-product of duck raising. A baloot is a duck with arrested development, the moron of the family. After an egg has passed by health stages from fresh to partially hatched it is a baloot. Filipinos consider baloots a delicacy and they are sold on every railroad platform or refreshment tienda. They can be differentiated from the well-known hard boiled egg by their sickly green color.

Oldtimers delight in inducing strangers to invest in baloots. They get out of range, however, before the victims discover that baloots are not just exactly fresh eggs.

Returned Students Hosts At Reception To Tsing Hua Men

President Moh Gave Much Sound Advice To Departing Students

Students of Tsing Hua College who are sailing for America to study in colleges were entertained at a tea reception yesterday at the American Returned Students Club, Nanking Road. Over 100 attended. Judge T. S. K. Lok, vice-president of the club, occupied the chair and Mr. H. Y. Moh, president, delivered the principal address of welcome. Mr. Chang, representing the guests, responded.

In extending the guests the good wishes of the club, Judge Loh pointed out the difference between the time when he was sent to the States and the present time. China today is in a deplorable condition, he said, and it is the duty of the students sent to America to explain the causes of this condition to their American friends. While he urged that the true facts be revealed, he said that nothing should be done to alienate the sympathy of the American people.

The judge concluded by pointing out the difference in the political and social conditions in the States and advised his hearers to try to adapt themselves to the local conditions as soon as they sail from Shanghai.

Mr. Moh gave a lengthy address in Chinese, from which the students will have much food for thought on their way over. "It is perfectly commendable to have high ambitions," said Mr. Moh, "but it is a different thing to work for the realisation of one's ambitions."

The speaker warned the expectant collegians not to use superlatives while in America, but be modest and remember where they come from. Every great movement started in a humble way, was Mr. Moh's motto. Be satisfied to start in a small way, he said in conclusion.

After Mr. Chang's response, refreshments were served when the returned students gave some helpful hints to the departing men relative to educational conditions in America.

ITALIAN TAXES WERE IGNORED BY 1,450,000

Rome.—Minister de Stefani's plan of reorganising Italy's finances probably was the hardest job any minister of finance has ever undertaken. He had not only to decide on the details of a new budget, but also to probe into the problem of whether the revenue was sufficient. He worked on a very simple plan.

Generalise certain taxes.
Abolish unjust taxes.
Eliminate fraud.
Postpone assessments.

His plan was the right one. He found that of 600,000 householders who paid tax there were 50,000 who evaded it, while 100,000 clerks and employees had never paid a tax in their lives. There were besides 1,300,000 agriculturalists and small landed proprietors who always had been immune from any sort of tax.

With great thoroughness the Minister de Stefani blocked every effort at evasion on the part of the communes and municipalities to increase their revenue. They were given orders that they must reorganise their tributary system and realise that there were certain limits beyond which they most not go in taxing people. The old financiers tried in the past to simplify the means of taxation in order that industry and trade should not be disturbed and easy terms for paying taxes were planned while industrials were allowed to fulfill their duties toward the revenue when they had realised all their profits.

Minister de Stefani in reorganising his department has simplified matters. Formerly there were thirteen different classes of taxpayers, now there remain three groups under headings of land, building and income tax. Certain taxes have been abolished where they were considered too heavy and new ones have been fixed in such a measure that they can be added to those now existing without changing their category.

The revision of the budget was decided in January of this year by Mussolini, and Minister de Stefani was told along what lines the new budget was to be planned. It was with the help of a few men, all expert, that the work was undertaken. Great liberty was granted to them and the result has been a budget which has impressed even members of the opposition party.

The estimates for the army, the navy and the national militia have been fixed at three billions, which is less than the pre-war estimate, with a saving on the proposed estimate of last November of 338,000,000 lire. With regard to public works these estimates have been guided by the rule of starting only those absolutely necessary and for finishing works already began or included in the present program. For this reason 750,000,000 lire has been fixed as the sum needed, with 250,000,000 lires for work commenced under former administrations, resulting thus in an economy of 221,000,000 lire on former budgets.

But a sure proof of the strength of the Fascista administration is shown by the eliminating of the railway debt. Director Torre is sure that in the year there will be a saving of 280,000,000 lire. The former deficit of 1,000,000,000 lire was due to over-staffing and highways—higher in fact than in any industrial enterprise.

The government has decided that in the payment of damages caused by the war payment will be effected by issuing state bonds payable in twenty-five years. Their policy with regard to international debts is a very simple one: they intend waiting until European affairs are settled before paying their debts to England, while the payment to the United States will take the same course if the latter permits.

Draft Dodger Kills Would-be Kidnapper

Ellerbach, Aug. 13.—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, son of an American family of brewers who achieved notoriety when he became a fugitive after dodging the army draft in the United States, shot and killed one man and wounded a second last night when an attempt was made to kidnap him from his hotel here.

When the two were attempting to drag Bergdoll from the hotel two accomplices were waiting outside the hotel with an American army automobile. These were arrested after they had been menaced by a gathering crowd on the street.

Bergdoll's two assailants have been identified as Frenchmen who were in the employ of Americans.
